A CUTTING TIME

Though our winter trade has been exceptionally good and we are not to be found among the mourners, yet we have a few goods we want to sell and the sooner they are sold the better we shall feel. We must begin to plan for the spring campaign, and want room and money to carry out the plans we formulate. To secure these two essentials we have visit of several weeks in Wheeling.

Mrs. Philip Essinger, South Erie street, is suffering from an attack of erysipelas.

A. N. Robinson, of Robinson Bros., is the happy father of a new baby—by adoption.

James A. Hackett has returned from Cincinnati, where he attended the furniture exposition.

The marriage of George Honic to Miss Anna Yetzer took place this morning at St. Mary's church.

Mrs. W. M. Rogers and daughter Maggie left this morning for Pittsburg, to visit several weeks.

The funeral of the late Bernard Paule will take place Friday morning, at 9 o'clock, from St. Mary's church.

Mrs. Elam Witmer, of Apple Creek, and Mrs. George Race, of Dalton, sisters of Mrs. A. E. Dauchy, are here guests.

The first of Mr. E. Feuchtinger's parlor lectures on the musical masters, was delivered in his studio, this afternoon.

Mrs. Will Smith and two daughters, Elsie and Jessie, of Clinton, O., are guests at the residence of Mr. Stielke, Akron dance in L. O. O. F. hall, Tuesday evening, Feb. 3. The Opera House orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. J. C.

Olnhausen, will be present to furnish music for the occasion. Mr. Holcomb will prompt.

A petition is being circulated for signatures asking the postmaster general to establish a mail route on the Wheeling & Lake Erie between Bowerston and Steubenville. The Steubenville people will all sign it for they recognize its importance to them as a business facility.—Steubenville Gazette.

A painful accident occurred to Mr.
Thos. Kern, of Massillon, while working in Canton last evening. While searching for his tools in a dark room he fell and injured his head to such an extent that he was brought home and medical aid summoned. The wound is of such a nature that the front part of the scalp was torn loose from the skull.

Health Officer Miller left this morning for Columbus to attend a joint meeting of the state and local boards of health.
The object of this meeting is to bring together those in this state who are engaged in practical sanitation, in order that a full discussion may be had of those questions which relate to the every-day work of local boards of health. Dr.

Miller will read a paper before the meeting, this evening, on "The Evolution of a Board of Health."

The canvass of votes cast for state officers of the Knights of Pythias, shows the election of the following: T. H.
Williams, Ripley, grand chancellor; Phil
H. Dorn, Cleveland, grand vice chancellor; the Rev. C. W. Hoeffer, Ansonia, grand master of exchequer; H. W. Lewis, Dayton, grand master of arms; M. A.

Bridge, Columbus, grand inner guard;
M. J. Jenkins, Plain City, grand outer guard; Walter B. Ritchie, Lima, representative to supreme lodge.

A CAR LOAD OF WHEAT.

Warwick & Justus Lose About $300
by an Accident.

A car load of wheat, in bulk, jumped the track on the switch to Warwick & Justus's mill about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Tremont street crossing. The car left the rails within a few feet of the trestle, was detached from its trucks, and plunged over the east bank.

The entire top was knocked out of the car and the wheat piled up at the bottom and on the side of the steep embankment in the soft earth. A large force of men, with a number of teams, were put promptly to work to reclaim all that was possible of the spilled grain. The car contained about 600 bushels, and Mr. W.
K. L. Warwick estimated that about 150 bushels could not be reclaimed, and another 100 could only be used for feed. The loss to the stock is estimated at $300, while the car, which was a new one belonging to the C. L. & W. road, seems to be wrecked beyond repair except the trucks. The grain was shipped from Canton, Ohio. No explanation can be given as to the cause for the car leaving the track. Brakemen David Robinson and Obadiah Horner were on the car and jumped, one on each side of the track, and both escaped with slight injuries.

Ingalls's Successor.

CANTON, Jan. 29.—Lewis Dumont, the well known merchant, whose unfortunate appetite for liquor has almost ruined him physically, was in probate court yesterday. Henry Altekruze was appointed his guardian. Dumont has been taken to Philadelphia to remain indefinitely.

A gang of petty thieves has been going through town. A number of residences have been entered, but the articles stolen have been of small value.

John Louzenbeiser has commenced suit in common pleas court against Henry Winfield for a balance of $1,140 due him on a judgment.

In the case of Catherine Willard against G. L. Willard's administrator, a verdict for $292.53 was awarded the plaintiff.

The will of Maria Dissler, Plain, has been filed for probate.

Judge W. E. Day, Col. W. A. Moore,
W. A. Lynch and W. W. Clark have returned from the conference of Dueser creditors at Cleveland. Judge Day said that the Cleveland conference was a pleasant one for an early adjustment and the lifting of the assignment.

Clifford Glass, of New Baltimore, who jumped his bail a year ago just before a case of criminal assault was called in court, ventured to town yesterday and was arrested and jailed. The case still hangs against him and he will be tried.

The park question is creating a great deal of discussion, and regret is universal that circumstances compelled the Cook heirs to withdraw their generous donation. It is not improbable that they may reconsider their action and that Canton will yet have a park worthy of the city.

A. R. HANNA APPOINTED

Important Work of the Rotch School

Trustees.

The trustees of the Charity Rotch school met this afternoon, in the law office of F. L. Baldwin, and out of thirty-five or forty candidates, elected A. R.
Hanna, of Tuscarawas township, as superintendent of the institution. The appointment will go into effect April 1, when the school will be re-opened, on a better basis than ever before. Mr. Hanna is one of the best known farmers in Stark county, having served as president of the Agricultural Society, and being conspicuously identified with the Horticultural Society. He is well equipped in all respects for the work he has undertaken. The board was unanimous in making this choice.

GREAT SIOUX INDIANS.

EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON

HOPING TO FIND JUSTICE

The Chief Warriors of the Sioux Nation Pass Through Massillon—They Will Ask the Enforcement of the Treaty Obligations.

The fourteen Indians mentioned yesterday as having passed through this city at 2 p. m. were the leading men of the Sioux nation.

Information from the Associated Press is that they were Major Sword, of the Indian police at Pine Ridge, Young-man-Afraid of His Horses, Little Wound, Big Road, Spotted Elk, Hump, Two Strike, High Pipe, High Hawk, Spotted Horse, Fast Thunder, Fire Lightning, and He Dog. They were accompanied by Interpreters Baptiste Pourriere (Big Bat)
Louis Shagran, and the Rev. Charles S.
Crook, and all were held together by Special Indian Agent Lewis and Major John Burke, the white chief of the Ogallala.

These fourteen Indians are going to plead for their people and for the enforcement of the treaties they have made with the government. By these treaties every man, woman and child in the Sioux nation is entitled to one and one-half pounds of beef a day—an allowance scarcely issued to a whole family in two days—and to every buck there should have been given a year ago two brood mares and $50 in cash in exchange for their land which was thrown open for settlement. The Indians have received neither horses nor money, and their allowance of beef which was stipulated in ancient treaties has been cut to the point of starvation.

The interpreters who accompany the party are the most famous in the West.
Shagran and Big Bat were with Crook in his famous expedition against the Sioux in 1876, and the Rev. Dr. Crook, although a full-blooded Sioux, is the Episcopalian minister at Pine Ridge.

THOMAS PAINE

Resign, Senator Don Cameron, resign!

To the Bucyrus Telegraph: Can-not the advertising compositor on your bright paper, who spells Mas-sillon "Massillon," be killed?

The communications are begin-ning to come in on the city hall proposition. Let them come. THE INDEPENDENT is the people's forum.

It is an ill wind that blows no-body some good. Here is one of the Farmers' Alliance men in the Illinois legislature under suspicion of being an escaped Ohio convict. In case this should prove true, the Illi-nois dead-lock would likely be broken, and ex-Governor Oglesby elected.

"Is the defeat of Senator Ingalls a national calamity?" was a question put this morning to a citizen of the thoughtful sort. "No," he replied, "it is a personal grief." And so it is. The great United States will run on like Tennyson's brook, but the defeat of Ingalls comes as a per-sonal grief to all lovers true of the English language, and of regular readers of the proceedings of the senate.

The Cleveland Press says: "Can-ton wants an insane asylum. Thinks that the bill locating it at Gallipolis will be repealed and if Stark's rep-resentatives hustle, they can get it." Stark county does not want the epi-leptic asylum so very much, after all. There was some method in per-mitting its location elsewhere, with-out effort. A large general insane asylum is pretty sure to be built soon, and it is upon the tail of that bird that Stark county salt will be sprinkled. The epileptic asylum will be a comparatively small institu-tion.

A cable letter from Berlin, dated January 26, contains this: "The cor-respondent in Washington of a Ger-man newspaper has sent an interview with Mr. McKinley to his paper in this city. During the course of this interview, Mr. McKinley is quoted as saying that Prince Bismarck's policy of limited protection which, in twenty years, brought Germany up to her present state of prosper-ity, 'induced him to take up the tar-iff question in the United States.' Mr. McKinley is said to have added that he intended to visit Prince Bis-marck in order to express personally his admiration for that statesman and for his policy.

Colonel Shepard of the New York Mail and Express, has again made a meal of fire and shouts:

"If gallant Ben Harrison wants one million men to end up the new Southeastern rebellion, and enforce the constitution and laws of the United States, he can have them in thirty days. The war whip is cracked again in the United States senate and rebel legislatures, and blood is in the air. The dedication of Lee in Richmond last May was one step. The irresponsible volunteer mounted cavalry in every county in every state is another. Southeastern state resolutions repudiating the nation-ality of the Columbian exposition is another. Threats of war if congress does its duty and provides for the protection of citizens at the polls is another. These are like the seces-sion mutterings of 1860, and ought to be understood by the American people and answered by immediate mobilization of troops in every state."

There will be no war this year, or next, and the Mail and Express is doubtless extravagant, yet the offenses mentioned are unmistakably of a rebellious and anarchistic na-ture, and retribution is sure to come.

BY VIRTUE OF THEIR VOTES.

A Chapter Upon the Inequality of the Sexes.

MR. EDITOR:—"Spice," in her article of Jan. 24, asks the editor of THE INDEPEN-DENT not to give conspicuous notice of the opinions of men who own no tax-able property, and yet are not backward about spending the money of others to improve the town. I wonder if it has never occurred to this woman that the reason why the opinions of these men are sought and placed before the public is because they are voters. A man may be without money and without brains; he may be armless and legless, yet if he is invested with that "priceless right of citizenship," the franchise, his opinion will always be sought by somebody and frequently paid for. On election days, at least, he becomes an important person-age, and on other days his opinions are received because his vote may be wanted in the interest of a certain measure to be put through by a certain individual. The only way by which women can protect themselves, their property and their homes is in the exercise of the elective franchise. Women are not re-presented by men, neither can they be.

For years the women of Ohio—a few of them—have tried to raise the age of protection for their daughters to 18 years, but could not accomplish it be-cause no mothers sat in the legislative seats. Now at last a bill is in for 18 years, and it remains to be seen whether men will deem it advisable to make it a law. In Delaware the moral sentiment of the legislators is so low, that in spite of the repeated efforts of the women, the age remains at 7. In other states it is 10, in still other states it is 12, but only in Kansas and Wyoming, where women vote it is 18. Women can not consist-ently complain that their rights are not considered, if at the same time they do nothing to help on the movement which has for its aim, the political enfranchise-ment of their sex, the uplifting of all classes of society. The recognition of the principle that every citizen, man or woman, is entitled to equal privileges under the law.

A government which collects the last farthing of tax upon the real and personal property, even to the road tax, of its women, and then is guilty of the mon-strous injustice of refusing them the bal-lot, is a republic only in name.

Wan is Bread and Butter First.

MR. EDITOR:—The move of the city council toward the improvement of our streets, doubtless meets the approval of all. But when authority is asked to bor-row $35,000 to build a city hall, it is at this time, as they say, a little too much. Bread and butter should be provided for before going in debt for jewelry.

Rise Up, Judge Young!

MR. EDITOR:—Will Judge Young kindly give us a little information as to the origin and characteristics of the new breed of hogs, "China Whites," to which he referred in his recent speech? Poss-ibly he meant to speak of "Chester Whites" or "Poland Chinas."

ANXIOUS INQUIRER.

Canal Fulton Creamery.

Fulton will have a creamery, and will make Elgin butter, says The Signal. The requisite stock for a plant has been sub-scribed, and a meeting of the stockhold-ers was held at the Easy House on Monday evening. Messrs. Gray and Brent, representatives of the firm of Davis & Rankin, were present, when the preliminary steps were taken for a permanent organization. It is expected that the plant will be ready for operation by April 1st. The factory agreed upon, if butter alone is made, and no cheese, will separate the milk from 600 to 700 cows. While the institution will not employ many hands, it will pay out a snug sum of money during the year to farmers for milk, and if rightly conduct-ed it will not only pay a satisfactory di-vidend to the stockholders, but will pay the farmer almost twice as much money for his milk as he can make out of his butter.

In Justice Court.

A civil action was brought in justice's court to-day by Albert Klein, stage car-penter of the Midnight Alarm Company, against A. Y. Pierson, the business man-ager, to recover $40. amount of salary claimed to be due. Klein was discharged from his position without notice and the amount claimed is made up of a week's salary, $25, and transportation to New York. He claims that under his contract he should have a week's notice before being discharged. The manager offered him the amount of salary due him up to the time of the notification that his services would be dispensed with. An attachment was issued on the company's effects, but before the prop-erty was levied upon the manager gave an indemnity bond, signed by Dr. C. F. Porter, for double the amount involved and will resist the payment of the claim in every possible legal way.

THE TOWNS ROUNDABOUT

Newman.

Evan Richards returned home from Mineral Ridge last week where he had been called to attend the funeral of his father.

The Misses Frankie Clay and Maggie Davis, of Massillon, spent Sunday with Newman friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Price and Miss Martha Rogers of Pigeon Run were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Wil-liams over Sunday.

'Squire Lewis Ruch, of Canal Fulton, made a legal visit to our village on Mon-day.

We notice that the farmers and the wage workers are demanding unlimited free coinage of silver with a vengeance. We are free with confessing our igno-rance on the above measure, and believe that three fourths of the wage workers to-day are in the same boat with us. The question should be taken up and discussed by the wage workers in a proper manner, thereby throwing some light on the subject. We hold to the opinion that legislation having a tendency to make the silver dollar worth less than 100 cents cannot be in the interest of the wage worker.

Mr. Cyrus Rowe and Miss Nora Herbst made husband and wife on Thursday of last week. Cy, here's our hand, and may your cup of joy be ever full.

James X. Jones, while at work in the Drake mine last Thursday, was seriously though not dangerously hurt by a neigh-bor's blast blazing through the pillar and scattering the coal all around him. It was truly a narrow escape.

The Baptist church held a very fine dime social at the Wm. Findley resi-dence Tuesday evening of this week.

That brickyard romance made excel-lent reading for those acquainted with the circumstance. Pay day has come and gone and no new developments. All the excitement has subsided and Barney continues to wrestle with the bricks.

Elton.

Miss Clara Kouth, of Canton, has been spending the week with Mrs. Burkholder.

Mr. Harvey Blocker, of Canal Fulton, spent several days with relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. Sylvester McFarren has been on the sick list.

Baby Grace Harrold has been under the care of Dr. Gans, and is a little bet-ter.

McFarren school scholars are few, owing to the grip.

Miss Lizzie Shorb left Monday to stay with her aunt, Mrs. Nancy Davis, at West Lebanon.

Mr. Ed Penman has charge of the blacksmith department at the Elm Run mine, in place of Jacob Hollinger, who fills the former's place at Greenville.

There were two taken into the M. E. church on probation, Sunday afternoon, Miss Etta Roan is at the home of Mr. Ojilva McFarren this week.

Mr. William Painter, of New Portage, and Mr. David Baughman were the guests of Mr. Samuel Baughman last week.

An oyster supper at the residence of Mr. Ben Saurers, Thursday night, will be well attended by the young folks.

Wilmot.

About fifty farmers met Friday in Christman & Borkey's hall to organize an Alliance, expecting Mr. Israel Bixler, of Oval City, to be present, but for some unknown reason that gentleman failed to appear. F. M. Frederick was elected chairman. After a few speeches by local talent the meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman. An effort will be made to secure the services of the Rev. Joshua Crawford, of Har-wood, for the next meeting.

The Patrons of Husbandry installed new officers at their hall Friday.

Mrs. Palmer, mother of our townsman, Truman Palmer, was buried in the old cemetery Wednesday. Her age was 82 years.

The Methodists closed their series of meetings last night.

Since our last Mrs. Peter Smith died at t' home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Fry, at Maysville.

Charles Rudolph will move near Can-al Dover this spring.

The firm of Putman & Son, grain deal-ers, of Beach City, has been dissolved, W. J. Putman now owning the entire business.

Brandt Conkle & Co. are sawing lum-ber for a barn for Jeff Dill.

The Rev. Vanderaal of Akron assisted the Rev. Atkinson a few days last week in holding meetings at Ridge church.

WHERE IS THE MONEY?

A Discussion at Columbus, Upon the Stark County Funds.

In Columbus, the Cleveland Leader's correspondent says, a heated discussion took place yesterday upon the bill by Mr. Sanford, of Summit, to have county funds deposited in banks instead of kept in official vaults, in counties having cities of the second class, third grade.

The bill provides that all county funds shall be deposited with the highest bid-der, but no bid less than 2 per cent shall be accepted. It requires the bank tak-ing the fund to give a bond of $30,000 and makes each stockholder in the bank personally liable for the amount of the deposit. The measure provides further that the treasurer and auditor shall keep account with the bank and make sworn statements to the county clerk monthly, as to the condition of the funds. Mr. Dresbach, of Stark, wanted the bill amended so as to exclude Stark county from its provisions. He made a speech of some length against the measure. Mr. Hudson, of Clinton, replied to Mr. Dresbach, and asked him if he knew that the officials of Stark county are violating the present law by placing the county funds in banks, and they are pocketing the interest they thus receive.

Mr. Dresbach challenged Mr. Hudson to produce evidence in support of his assertion, and Mr. Hudson replied that he felt confident he could do so if given a few days' time in which to investigate the matter. An investigation will be made by Mr. Hudson.

The best medical authorities say the proper way to treat catarrh is to take a constitutional remedy, like Hood's Sas-parilla.

ECHOES FROM THE SHOPS.

Note and Comment on Men and Do-ings at Russell Co's.

L. S. Buttermore says that if the man who took his umbrella from his private office will return it he will give him the price of it in money, so that he can have the satisfaction of greasing the floor with his shape.

Richard Overton's thumb is not pain-ful this morning and he is at work. It was only a necessary trade mark he re-ceived.

If the fingers that have been cut, nip-ped, squeezed, jammed and smashed in these shops were put up in a row, what an array of scarred and stubby old vet-erans there would be—if one may be pardoned for speaking thus lightly.

Mr. Sylvester Burd, whose silken beard has been the pride of the shop, has, to the dismay of his friends, again decided to shave off his whiskers.

A wager was made here yesterday during the noon hour, that like Hen-ninger is the most extravagant man in the shop, in the matter of dress. He now appears in a pair of elegant quick-fit pants, of a delicate buckwheat tint, and is very careful in his move-ments lest they should bag at the knees. They evidently were not made for him or were pulled too soon.

The boys now tip their hats to John Mannweiler, who has received a fortune from the old country. The exact amount is not known, but it is either $210,000 or $2,100 or $210—the latter it is believed. But be that as it may, it is evident that the effort of some to ingratiate them-selves into his favor will not loosen his grip, any, for he carries himself like a duke of the royal blood now. It has been said that John is related to the Hohenzollerns of Germany in a distant kind of a way, and that he used to play marbles with Prince Von Bismarck's son, Herbert, who, like his father, was a regular huncher and used to hook John's glasses right along. John has been a full-fledged citizen of the United States for many years and does not trouble himself about his old playmate any more, and has broken off all cor-respondence with him. He expressed much satisfaction when his chum, Wilhelm, II, sent Herbert's old dad out into the country to rusticate, on account of the way old Bis. used to interfere to John's disadvantage, and which was the cause of very strained relations be-tween them for some time in relation to the military policy of the government.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Midnight Alarm."

One of the largest and most successful company's on the road, will appear at Bucher's to-night. "The Midnight Alarm" is spoken of in every city as be-ing the "finest performance of the season." The company is a large one and a car load of scenery is carried by the company. The effects are wonderful, realistic and startling. The first act is the wharf scene, East river, New York city, showing the Brooklyn bridge, Stat-ue of Liberty, Brooklyn in the distance, boats, ferries, etc., crossing East river between New York and Brooklyn. The entire scene is illuminated with thou-sands of electric lights, making a beau-tiful set. The second scene is a New Jer-sey farm. The height of realism is reached when the "Midnight Alarm" comes in, the flight of engines and trucks making one of the most realistic effects produced.

"The Drummer Boy."

The Sons of Veterans will present "The Drummer Boy" in the opera house Thursday, Friday and Saturday even-ings, Feb. 5, 6 and 7. The best local tal-ent has been secured, and an unusually good entertainment is anticipated. Mr. A. F. Nail, the manager of the play, has the reputation of being one of the best negro comedians on the stage, and has taken the part of Uncle Joe for the last fifteen years. Admission 35 cents; gal-ery 25 cents. Reserved seats without extra charge at the Independent Com-pany's store.

Lost Trace of Lizzie.

An officer returned from Akron about 1 o'clock this morning, where he had gone in a conveyance in search of Lizzie Roberts, the domestic who is wanted for stealing a silk dress from the residence of W. Peculiar Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sas-parilla possesses the curative value of the best known reme- dies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dol-lar." Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto un-known. Sarsaparilla has and has won for it the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is more of Hood's Sas-parilla sold in Lowell than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of cures, sales abroad no other Peculiar preparation ever attained so rapidly nor held so steadfastly the confidence of all classes of people. Peculiar in the brain-work which it represents, Hood's Sarsaparilla com-bines all the knowledge which modern research has "to itself" developed, with many years practical experience in preparing medicines. Be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE MINE HORROR.

ALL THE BODIES HAVE BEEN RECOVERED.

Only Seventy-One of the One Hundred and Six Identified.

The Full Force of the Mammoth Mine Horror Fixed—About Two Hundred and Fifty Widows and Orphans to be Cared for—The Scene of Horror Visited by Thousands—No Explanation Can be Given as to the Cause—Sixty-Three Victims Placed Side by Side in a Common Grave.

YOUNGWOOD, Pa., Jan. 29.—The full force of the Mammoth mine horror was fixed yesterday afternoon, when the mutilated remains of Peter Shryuke were dug from under the wreckage in the pit and carried to the morgue for identification. His body was last found. It was numbered 106, and the industrious searching parties who have been on duty since the explosion left the scene of the calamity, satisfied that all the bodies had been recovered and their melancholy work was ended. Of the 106 victims only 71 have been positively identified. The unidentified were buried with the Hungarians at Scottsdale last evening. It is not yet definitely known how many of the unfortunate miners here leave widows. General Superintendent Lynch said that a great majority of the victims were single men, but investigation develops the fact that at least 50 of them leave wives and families, making in all about 250 widows and orphans. Most of the families of the victims are being looked after by Superintendent Lynch. The accident has already cost the company in the neighborhood of $10,000 for the funerals and caring for the dead. It will likely cost it much more to provide for the immediate wants of the victims' families.

A Wife's Great Sorrow.

Peter Shryuke, whose body was the last recovered, was identified before he reached the morgue. His wife, who had been keeping watch near the mouth of the shaft since the awful accident, recognized her dead husband even before the remains were taken from the shaft cage. She seemed to have a premonition of the dead body's approach. While the elevator bearing the body was being drawn to the surface she pushed through the crowd and was the first to uncover the blackened, charred victim. She made no outcry. A low, sad moan forced itself through her pale, quivering lips, and before the rescuers could stay her, she had prostrated herself over the body of her dead husband. The grimy-faced miners, who had not evidenced feeling all the day, turned from the distressing scene and bowed their heads. A thousand people saw the painful picture, and for fully five minutes no one intruded upon the widow's consuming grief. The dead was hers. She had no other care, and when she rose from embracing the distorted form of her husband she looked wildly about her and in a voice sweetly soft she chanted the Catholic psalm, "From the Depths I Cry to You." The Rev. Father Laubing heard the pathetic prayer, and while he offered condolence and consolation, he led the stricken woman from the crowd.

Preparing the Dead for Burial.

An army of at least 100 men hurried between the mine and morgue, carrying coffins, burial suits or rough boxes. A dozen teams were dragging the dead to their homes or conveying them to the railroad station for shipment. At least 100 women, widows, mothers or sisters of the unfortunate victims followed the coffins about and watched with selfish interest every move made by the horde of undertakers who were in charge of the funerals. While one casket was being carried away from the morgue dead bodies were being brought in and the procession seemed to be without an end. The scene of the horror was visited by countless thousands. Men, women and children came from every town and hamlet in Westmoreland county. Every road leading to Youngwood was blocked with wagons and carriages. Great crowds of people swarmed over the hills to the ill-fated mine, and all traing to the place brought great delegations of curious visitors. They tramped about ankle deep in the mud, saw the victims of the disaster and went away.

No Explanation of the Horror.

Mine Inspectors Elick, Jenkins, Tompitt and ex-Mine Inspector Steiner arrived here early yesterday morning. They held a consultation with Superintendent Keighly, and then visited the scene of the explosion. Neither of them is able to even attempt an explanation of the horror. They write in the state evidence of gas in the mines, and they also unite in the opinion that Fire Boss Sneath, whose body was so horribly mutilated by the explosion, had faithfully examined the mine in the morning. They argue that the presence of gas would have been detected by the miners when they started to work.

Sixty-Three Victims Buried.

All the Connellsville coke region stood with bowed form and reverent head, while sixty-three of the dead miners taken from the Mammoth shaft were laid to rest for their long sleep. The funeral procession was one such as the region has never before known. The remains and the mourners were carried to St. John the Baptist's cemetery, at Scottsdale, in a long special train. Along the inhabited portions of the road hundreds of citizens turned out, and wherever the train halted great crowds gathered. Over 3,000 persons were present as the bodies were placed side by side in a common grave.

SENATOR PFEFFER.

Result of the Ballot in Joint Session of the Kansas Legislature.

TOPEKA, KAN., Jan. 29.—The vote for the United States senator in joint session of the legislature, yesterday, resulted as follows: Pfeffer, 101; Ingalls, 58; Blair, 3; Baker, 1; Morrill, 1; Kelley, 1. Mr. Pfeffer was then formally declared elected as United States senator to succeed Mr. Ingalls.

A STRANGE INFATUATION.

Girl Seventeen Falls Desperately in Love with an Old Bachelor.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Jan. 29.—An exceptional case of infatuation on the part of a young girl but 17 with a man of 40 has just developed here. The girl is a pretty German named Lena Hayn, of Findlay, O., and her sweetheart is Robert Deem, a prosy, middle-aged farmer, an old bachelor, whom she met once by accident, and boldly admits herself in love with him. Two weeks ago she came here, having followed him from Findlay to this city, near which is his home. As long as her money lasted she stayed at a good hotel, but failing to find Deem, engaged herself as waiter girl at the largest hotel in this city, where Deem was known to stay when here, vainly hoping there to see him. On Saturday she heard he was in the country, and drove alone twelve miles in the mud only to learn that he had come to town. Then she returned, and finding Deem at the Blennerhassett, tried to induce him to marry her. He, tired of her manoeuvres, called in the police, who sent her home. She went reluctantly, claiming she would have him yet.

A MAGNIFICENT STRUCTURE.

Dedication of the New Masonic Home in Michigan.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Jan. 29.—The Michigan Masonic home for aged and infirm Master Masons, their widows and orphans, was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies by the Grand Lodge of Michigan. Hon. Hugh McCurdy, deputy grand commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of the United States, delivered the address. John S. Cross, of Bangor, Mich., grand master of Michigan, presided, and 600 Masons and officers were in attendance. The home is a magnificent structure of white brick, costing $80,000, situated on the shore of Reed's lake, three miles east of this city. The association is out of debt, the entire cost of the building having been contributed by Michigan Masons and their friends.

VARIOUSLY COMMENTED ON.

The Talk in Washington About the Defeat of Senator Ingalls.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The defeat of Senator Ingalls is variously commented on here. The Democrats were in hopes that he would be returned on account of his attitude on the cloture and election bills. His Republican colleagues tried to persuade him not to take a pronounced position on either the silver or election bills, as it would do him no good, but his friends in Kansas thought that if he showed he was not in antagonism to the cardinal principles of the alliance he might secure enough votes from men who had heretofore been Republicans to elect him. Ingalls' bid was not accepted, and his friends here think it would have been better for his future had he pursued a course in line with the great majority of his party.

A FIGHT IN A BANK.

Millionaire Mackay Knocks Down His Confidential Agent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—In the Nevada bank millionaire John W. Mackay stalked into President Hellman's room and knocked down C. W. Bonying, his confidential agent. The men were separated before either could pull a revolver, but those who know both declare that this is not the end of the trouble. Bonying came from England several years ago, and has been Mackay's chief business man here for several years. Hellman recently took charge of the Nevada bank, and a street report is that Bonying had played Mackay false in a recent deal. The street was full of rumors, but the persons chiefly interested refuse to talk.

THE SUPREME COURT BILL.

The Measure Is Regarded as of Great Importance.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Senators Edmunds, Hoar and Everts, who are in conference with a similar committee of the house judiciary committee, in endeavoring to reach an agreement on the supreme court relief bill, say they expect to get the bill in such shape as to send it to a conference, which will insure its adoption by both houses. The measure is regarded as of great importance, and the associate justices are interesting themselves to secure its passage by the present congress.

IDLE MEN GOING TO WORK.

The Industrial Situation in the Coke Region Begins to Brighten.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Jan. 29.—The rolling mill here, which has been idle for over five weeks, will be resumed next Monday. This news is welcomed by everybody, as about six or seven hundred men are employed at the works. The pipe mill, which was also idle for some time, is now about one-half in blast. The coke works, those of them which were blown out of blast a few weeks since, are still cold. There are no signs for early resumption, but the number of idle men seems to be decreasing.

B. H. Campbell Not Murdered.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—The body of B. H. Campbell, the millionaire, who has been missing since Nov. 26, was found yesterday in the river at the Rush street bridge. Its identification is complete, and sets at rest all the rumors of foul play, and strongly confirms the claims of his friends that he either committed suicide while temporarily deranged or met accidental death while wandering about the streets in delirium, brought on by severe illness.

A Kansas Bank Closes Its Doors.

ATCHISON, KAN., Jan. 29.—The States National bank of this city, closed its doors yesterday and will go into voluntary liquidation. It is asserted that the directors have contemplated for several months taking this action. The bank was organized in January, 1887, with a capital stock of $250,000.

Virulent Typhoid Fever at Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Much uneasiness is felt over the prevalence of typhoid fever. There are eighty cases in the city proper, and many deaths have already occurred from this cause. The fever is of a virulent type in most of the cases.

Dr. Sullivan Whitney Dead.

BOSTON, Jan. 29.—Dr. Sullivan Whitney, the first American physician to manufacture homeopathic remedies, died at Newtonville, aged 83.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

THE APPORTIONMENT BILL UP IN THE SENATE.

Debate on it by Messrs. Hale, Carlisle, Hiscoc and Hawley—A Vote to be Asked Upon the Bill To-Day—Several Public Building Bills Agreed to—The House in Committee of the Whole on the Military Academy Appropriation Bill—Several Amendments Offered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—In the senate Wednesday, during the morning hour, senate bill for a pontoon bridge across the Missouri river at Lexington, Mo., and house bill to ratify and confirm agreements with the Sac and Fox nation of Indians, and the Iowa tribe of Indians (amended) were passed. Conference report on the bill for a public building at Pueblo, Colo., was agreed to. The appropriation is reduced from $400,000 to $250,000. The house apportionment bill was then taken up and Mr. Hale argued in favor of the bill as it came from the house. After further discussion by Messrs. Carlisle, Hiscoc, Hawley and Hale, the bill was laid aside. Mr. Hale gave notice that he would ask a vote upon it at noon Thursday. A conference on the bill for a public building at Rockford, Ill., was agreed to. House bill increasing to $75,000 the limit of cost for a public building at Portsmouth was reported and placed on the calendar. After a brief executive session on the senate, at 5 o'clock, adjourned.

The Day in the House.

In the house the journal of Tuesday's proceedings was approved. The conference report on the bill for the disposal of the abandoned Fort Ellis, Mon., military reservation under the homestead law was adopted. Senate resolution was agreed to for the printing of 15,000 extra copies of the report of the irrigation committee on the irrigation of the arid lands. The resignation of John H. McCarthy as representative from the Eighth New York district was laid before the house and laid on the table. The house then went into committee of the whole on the military academy appropriation bill. Several amendments were offered and rejected, and before the disposition of the bill the committee found itself without a quorum and the house adjourned.

BETTER HOPES AND PEACE.

What is Hoped to be Accomplished for the Soft Coal Region.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 29.—President Rae, Secretary Watchorn and Organizer McBride, of the United Mine Workers, passed through this city on their way to Clearfield, Pa. Thence to go to the coal regions of Maryland and West Virginia to arrange for a competitive convention, which will be held in March. It is intended to perfect a system of control of prices of all coal marketed in the east and northeast, and to fix a scale of prices for a year. Operators as well as miners will be represented. Secretary Watchorn said it would result in better wages for 35,000 miners in the regions named.

WILL BE CONFIRMED.

No Cause for Uneasiness Over Judge Acheson's Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Some anxiety has been manifested by Judge Acheson's friends over the delay in the confirmation of his appointment. Senator Quay, however, says that no concern need be felt about this matter, since the judiciary committee, to which the nomination was referred, was unusually slow to act, and that there were no obstacles in Judge Acheson's way. The senator added that he should not say that either District Attorney Lyon or Judge Wickham was a candidate for the district bench, he thought either of them would accept the place.

NO SILVER LEGISLATION.

One Result of the Defeat of the Election Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—One of the results of the action of the free coinage advocates in securing the defeat of the cloture and election bill will be to prevent any legislation on the silver measure. The western Republican members who were disposed to vote for free coinage have announced themselves as now unalterably opposed to the measure. Mr. Bland and other Democratic advocates, however, will try to bring it up on all occasions.

The Gay Young Man Released.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Jan. 29.—Calvin Bushey, the festive music teacher who was arrested for running off with a pretty daughter of an Ohio farmer and got in jail here for the offense, was bailed out yesterday, his brother having come here from his Ohio home with the cash.

NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD.

It is said that C. A. Brandt, while drilling a well on his farm near Fairport, La., found, at the depth of 320 feet, a vein of silver sixteen inches thick.

Col. William Freeman Vilas was formally elected United States senator from Wisconsin to succeed Senator Sherman in joint convention of the legislature, Wednesday.

Supervising Inspector of Steam Vessels Fehrenbach suggests that the steamboat industry be put on fast steamers for carrying passengers and express matter. It would greatly improve their business, which is now unprofitable.

Confirmation of the intended resignation of Judge Julius S. Grinnell from the circuit bench was given by him Wednesday. He informed a reporter that he will retire before the first of April. It is thought he will accept the position of general counsel for the Chicago City Railway company.

Sir Charles Tupper has been summoned by cable from London to take charge of the negotiations for a reciprocal treaty at Washington. Sir Charles, who sailed from Liverpool Wednesday, will bear dispatches from Lord Salisbury regarding the reopening of the question of reciprocity, which he will submit to Secretary Blaine.

Weather Forecast.

For Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia: Showers; southeasterly winds; stationary temperature, except in Northern Pennsylvania, slightly warmer.

THAT SILVER POOL.

Gen. Boynton Responsible for the Article in Reference to a Conversation Between Messrs. Dingley and Payne.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The special house committee investigating the silver pool continued its inquiry yesterday. Gen. Boynton, Washington correspondent of The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, testified that he was responsible for the article getting into print that appeared in The New York Times in reference to a conversation between Representatives Dingley and Payne (members of the committee) in connection with the testimony of Senator Vest in regard to Senator Cameron's silver purchase. He did not hear the conversation himself, but got it from a gentleman of high character. He refused to give the name of his informant. Witness said that the message he had sent to Mr. Dingley, correspondent of The New York Times, about the conversation was to the effect that two members of the committee (Dingley and Payne) were explaining to each other their surprise at the testimony of Senator Vest and insisting that they had nothing to do with it. Gen. Boynton, explaining why he had accepted the information, said that he was told by Mr. Stevens, the correspondent of The St. Louis Globe Democrat, on began that Representative Dockery had told him (Stevens) that it was the desire of the committee for Mr. Stevens, who was to appear as witness, to delay his appearance and prolong his testimony, as it was the purpose of the committee to adjourn from Saturday to Wednesday, and he (Dockery) did not want to testify or have Senator Vest testify until that time. This, with other information he had, he said, looked as if he had a plausible story. Witness testified that he had no personal knowledge of the existence of a silver pool or of any member of congress speculating in silver. He had heard rumors that senators and representatives were interested, but did not think it fair to mention names. Mr. Tanner, ex-state treasurer of Illinois, he said, could give more information than he had. He also suggested that the committee get the telegrams of Cameron, Littler and Tanner in connection with their silver purchases.

BANCROFT'S WILL.

Historic Manuscripts to be Offered to the Library of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The will of the late George Bancroft has been placed in probate here. The estate is given in trust for the benefit of relatives. Mr. Bancroft gives his portrait to Harvard college. His manuscripts of historic collections are to be offered for sale to the library of congress, and, in the event of their not being purchased, to be offered to any public library. The money to be added to the trust fund. The library and printed works are to be sold preferably to some one institution, and this money is to go to the same fund. The income from his copyrights are also to go to the fund.

A Railroad Route Altered.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Jan. 29.—It is announced that Senator Camden has changed the proposed route of his railroad extension from Sutton, W. Va., to the Virginia coal fields so as to strike the C. & O. railroad at the mouth of the Gauley river, and using that line to the mouth of the Canterbury river, where large coking fields are found. Work will begin in the development of these at once. The corps of engineers are now completing the final surveys.

NO MONEY AND NO FOOD.

2,500 Italians Shipped to Belleaire by Mistake.

BELLAIRE, O., Jan. 29.—One of the large contracting firms of this place, at present working on the turnpikes, recently sent an order to a Pittsburgh firm for a lot of Italian laborers. The order was for a small number, but the firm in Pittsburgh evidently misunderstood the order, for they kept sending instalments of Italians until fully 2,500 in excess of orders had been received here. The men had hard work making any one understand their situation. They had no money, no place to go and nothing to eat. Finally an interpreter telegraphed to the Italian minister at Washington to ask if there was not some relief. So far the minister has not been heard from, and the Italians are in a bad way.

DISCOVERED THE SECRET.

East Liverpool Pottery Maker Will Decorate with Gold.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Jan. 29.—Lev Cowen, a decorator, employed at one of the large potteries in this city, has discovered the manner in which decorative gold is manufactured. One firm, J. Marshing & Co., in New York City, have held the secret and reaped a great harvest from their business. The firm immediately on hearing of Mr. Cowen's discovery offered him $25,000 to withhold his secret. He very politely refused and stated that he could now manufacture the decorator's gold and put it on the market at a much less cost than the above mentioned firm.

The Celebrated Kerr Will Case.

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Jan. 29.—A new feature has appeared in the celebrated Kerr will case. Robert Kerr, the original testator, died in July, 1887, from injuries received in a runaway. Now a new heir has appeared on the scene and announces her determination to upset the decree. This person is a Mrs. Jacob Rice, of Whetstone township, Crawford county, who claims to be a daughter of Stephen Kerr, son of the deceased, and therefore entitled to a portion of the personal property. Her alleged father claims that she is not his daughter, and therefore cannot be classed as an heir.

Sensational Suit for Divorce.

MT. VERNON, O., Jan. 29.—A sensational suit for divorce, which involves the moral standing of a minister of the Gospel, was filed here. The petitioner is Daniel Jennings, of Sunbury, and the defendant is Mrs. Elsie Jennings, of Centerville. The parties were married in Centerville, April 4, 1882, and have two children. Mr. Jennings swears in his petition that in 1890, on several occasions, his wife committed adultery with Rev. George W. Duckworth. Rev. Duckworth is a minister in the Christian church and published a paper in the interest of that denomination.

THE FADS OF STATESMEN

WALTER WELLMAN HAS BEEN QUETLY WATCHING THEM.

What He Has Learned About Them He Has Here Written Down for Curious Readers to Carefully Peruse and Ruminate Upon.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The greatest of men have their small traits, their little peculiarities. President Harrison dislikes a tall hat, though of course he often sacrifices personal predilection to considerations of dignity and propriety. He has always had a horror of public barber shops, and the man who now trims his beard and cuts his hair—the court barber—has performed a like service for Mr. Harrison for fifteen or twenty years. At Indianapolis the president rarely or never visited a barber shop, but always had his man come to him at home or at his office.

The president's favorite hat is the derby, but Senator Plumb couldn't be hired to wear anything but a soft slouch hat, which looks all the more slouchy from Mr. Plumb's way of wearing it. Senator Wolcott hasn't worn any sort of shoes except patent leather since he came to Washington. Senator Voorhees has worn the same style of neckties—plain, black silk, "string" ties—ever since he was a boy, and will probably wear them, and none other, as long as he lives.

Another hobby of the Indiana senator is his fondness for a large silver watch. It is an old fashioned timepiece, almost as big as one of those dollar alarm clocks which have driven so many men to profanity by their premature explosions, and the senator has carried it since he left his home in Ohio about forty years ago. It was his father's before him, and will be his son's when he is gone. Senator Sawyer has a mania for anti-fat literature, anti-fat experiments and anti-fat remedies. He is the acknowledged authority in congress on this subject, and speaks as one with personal knowledge, for by eating light and often and eschewing fluids he has reduced his weight fifty pounds in six months. As nothing succeeds like success, all the fat men in Washington are rushing to Senator Sawyer for advice.

Senator Ingalls has two or three hobbies. One of these is rooting around old bookstores; another is red neckties, and a third is wearing a tight fitting coat, always buttoned from top to bottom. Maj. McKinley expends a good deal of his surplus energy in smoking cigars. He is one of the most inveterate smokers in congress. Another of Mr. McKinley's peculiarities is his fondness for the use of the words "United States" in debate. Mr. McKinley never fails to improve an opportunity to use these words, for he loves to roll them on his tongue.

Mr. McKinley pronounces "United States" very much in this fashion—"Y-o-u-n-i-t-ed S-t-a-t-e-s," and if he has occasion to speak of the president he is always the "President of the United States." The senate is "The senate of the United States," and the treasury is "The treasury of the United States." Senator Gorman, whose oratorical manners are much like those of Mr. McKinley, has a similar fall. He rarely or never addresses the presiding officer of the senate without saying, "Now, Mr. President." One day last week, during the great debate on the elections bill, Mr. Gorman made his usual exclamation, "Now, Mr. President," when his attention was diverted by some of his colleagues, who whispered to him advice or suggestions concerning his remarks. It thus happened that Mr. Gorman repeated his favorite phrase no fewer than five times, with rather comical effect.

Senator Reagan, of Texas, is never happy unless he has strings or pieces of cord to play with, twirling them about in his fingers, testing their strength, tying them in knots, and then untying them again. Senator Kenna, of West Virginia, is a paper chewer. He is continually snipping off corners of letters or sheets of paper and putting them in his mouth. Sometimes he uses pieces of cord or binding twine, and one recent day he cut a queer figure going about the senate chamber with a couple of yards of red ribbon dangling from his mouth. The spectators craned their necks and asked one another what the trouble was with the senator from West Virginia. The answer was simple. Mr. Kenna had simply begun to exercise his infantile propensity upon the end of a ball of red tape.

An odd fad is that of Congressman George Adams, of Illinois. Mr. Adams, though never at sea, is passionately fond of sea stories. He reads all the sea tales he can get hold of, and amuses himself drawing diagrams of the sailing courses of ships described in the stories, and of the scenes of wrecks and disasters. From his familiarity with the fiction of the sea Mr. Adams has become a master of nautical terms, which he is too modest to use. Some day, no doubt, the congressman will take a sea voyage, and come back determined to become a sailor, even if he has to buy a yacht for his own use or ship before the mast of a lake schooner.

Senator Cockrell is the only man I know of in the aristocratic end of the Capitol who has the audacity to smoke a pipe within the sacred precincts of the house of lords. During one of the recent night sessions Mr. Cockrell was among the absentees, and the sergeant-at-arms received instructions to hunt him up and bring him into the chamber. While that official was searching high and low Mr. Cockrell was snuggled away in a corner of the cloak room, enjoying a smoke from a long corncob pipe made in his beloved Missouri. When he heard that he was wanted the senator refilled his pipe, came to the door leading to the chamber and there stood puffing defiance in the face of the senate.

Senator Wolcott is the only left handed man in the upper branch of congress. Congressman Hopkins, of Illinois, is not only left handed, but has a way of turning the paper wrong end to while writing, so that he looks at the lines from the top instead of from the bottom.

Senator Edmunds twirls his thumbs or rubs his nose with his two forefingers joined together. Speaker Reed has a habit of standing with his hands clasped behind his back.

Joe Blackburn is like a big, awkward boy—there is always some cut, sprain or bruise on his body. First, he slips on the ice and hurts his leg; then he cracks the bones in his left arm, and to this day wears that member in a sling. Another of his peculiarities is failure to answer to his name on the first roll call. One day last week the tally clerk, in calling the roll of the senate, called out Blackburn's name as usual, and, as usual, was about to call the next name without the customary pause for a response, when Blackburn sang out a "no," which made the gas fixtures rattle, and filled the clerk with astonishment and confusion.

One of Senator Cullom's characteristics is his smile. The senior senator from Illinois, who looks like Abraham Lincoln, and who may some day be president, is always smiling. He smiles when he is good natured and when he is not, when he is saying unpleasant things as well as pleasant, when praising or damning. He cannot help smiling any more than he can help breathing, and it follows that Mr. Cullom is a man who makes many friends and few enemies.

A peculiarity of Senator Bate is that, although he is very fond of tobacco, and always has a cigar in a corner of his mouth, no one in Washington has ever seen him smoke in the ordinary acceptance of the term. His cigar is never lighted, and he enjoys what he calls a "dry smoke." He has a reason for this which is worth relating. He was a brigadier general in the Confederate army, and connected with his brigade was his brother, also an officer of high rank. The two were always together. Both were smokers, and even in the field the thin blue curls of smoke could be seen ascending from their cigars.

During one of the most fiercely fought battles of the war Gen. Bate and his brother were together as usual watching the progress of the fight. They were on an eminence, and although within range of the enemy's batteries proceeded to indulge themselves as usual in the weed. Gen. Bate drew out from his pocket two cigars, and handing one to his brother took the other himself, and then asked for a light. His brother struck a match on his box, and just as he was offering it to the general a cannon ball came along and struck him right in the face. The poor fellow's head was taken off as cleanly as though it had been done with a sword. From that day to this Senator Bate has never lighted a cigar.

Senator Brown, of Georgia, who is now sick, and whose successor will be the "fighting Governor" Gordon, had a habit when speaking of always rubbing his hands together. This peculiar trait called forth from Mr. Ingalls that memorable attack on Mr. Brown, in which he characterized him as "a Uriah Heap, continually washing his hands in imperceptible water with invisible soap." Mr. Hisecock, whether on his feet speaking or in his chair, is all the while running his hands through his hair, which with some vanity he has arranged in thick rolling locks, which fall in gray ripples over his forehead.

Senator Edmunds, who is very bald, has a horror of draughts, and often wears a skull cap in going through the senate corridors. Senator Teller, who wears his thick, tawny hair pompadour, has a way of stroking his bangs upward every few minutes. An oddity of Senator Plumb, one which greatly adds to his resemblance to a big, good natured farmer, is his habit of running his thumb under his waistcoat at the shoulder to straighten out his suspender strap. This he does about once in five minutes, especially when standing on his feet engaged in conversation. He does it sometimes while making a speech, just as the farmer does when he stops to rest with the plow or the rake.

Senator Sawyer is fond of big red apples, and often comes into the senate chamber with three or four in his arms, and then passes them out to his neighbors. His colleague, little Senator Spooner, is a "dry" smoker, and goes around half the time with an unlit cigar between his lips or in his fingers. Senator Daniel is still another "dry" smoker. Roger Q. Mills is a toothpick fiend. Springer, of Illinois, besides his famous red buttonhole bouquet, is noted for the way in which he picks at the buttons on the coats of the friends with whom he holds conversation.

Senator Hawley, of Connecticut, is always fumbling in his pockets like a schoolboy. Julius Caesar Burrows seems to think his trousers pockets were made to keep his hands in. Billy Mason, of Chicago, never combs his hair. Senator George, of Mississippi, wears two pairs of glasses at once—one for reading and the other for long range. Senator Morrill takes a long nap every afternoon in the Republican cloak room, and is so regular in this indulgence that at about 1 o'clock senators who may be sitting on Mr. Morrill's favorite couch considerably get up and move away, so that the coast may be clear for the aged statesman from Vermont. Senator Evans wears coats two or three sizes too large for him, for the purpose, it is supposed, of concealing to some extent the sparseness of his frame.

Henry Cabot Lodge has a sweet tooth, and five or six times a day, on an average, sends a page out for caramels. Ben Butterworth puts his arm around you if you stand beside him or walk by his side. Joe Cannon never fails to rest one hand on your shoulder while talking to you, as if to reassure you that he means to do you no harm with the other, which he uses for purposes of pestification.

WALTER WELLMAN.

The lamented Bishop Gilbert Haven said of the lay representation of women in the general conference: "It is bound to come, and women will yet be sent to this highest legislative and judicial assembly of the Methodist church, and women will yet be ordained bishops." And he remarked further to Mrs. Livermore: "You will live to see it. I shall not."

CAUSED A SENSATION.

HON. H. E. TAUBENECK PROVES TO BE W. H. ROGERS.

He is an Alliance Member of the Illinois Legislature Who Has Recently Attracted Much Attention & on the Fact That on His Vote Depends the Election of the United States Senator—He Forged Himself in and Out of the Ohio Penitentiary.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—Pictures of Hon. H. E. Taubeneck, member of the house of representatives in Illinois, have been sent to the officials at the penitentiary and shown to nearly a dozen prisoners, who identified him as W. H. Rogers. The description of the two men tallies in every respect. Those who were there in 1886 called his name without hesitation and added the fact that Rogers was the book keeper in the state shop. Taubeneck is an alliance member of the Illinois legislature, who has recently attracted so much attention from the fact that on his vote depends the election of the next United States senator. Rogers has a most sensational history, as the records of the Ohio penitentiary show that he forged himself, both in and out of that institution. In 1885 he was received from Wayne county to serve eighteen months for forgery, and was paroled on the 7th day of August, 1886. The papers show that every one of them was forged, and it is said that he left the state within twenty-four hours after he was released. A committee of the Illinois legislature is at present investigating similar charges against Taubeneck.

IRON WORKS SOLD.

An English Syndicate's Big Deal in the Lehigh Valley.

ALLENTOWN, PA., Jan. 29.—One of the most important real estate transfers ever made in the Lehigh Valley has just been consummated here. The Crane Iron works at Catsasqua, next to the largest pig iron producing establishment in Eastern Pennsylvania, was sold to an English syndicate for $3,500,000. Besides the five furnaces of the company at Catsasqua, the purchase includes the Warwick iron works at Pottstown, Pa., the valuable premises of the company at Seisaltzville, Pa., and leases on furnaces at Edgell and Macgus, together with all the raw material, rolling stock and the Catsasqua water works, which are owned by the company. The negotiations have been pending for a year. No immediate changes in the management will be made.

BIG SCHEME IN WEST VIRGINIA.

2,000 Acres of Ground Bought and Rolling Mills, Etc., Projected.

WHEELING, W. VA., Jan. 29.—Moundsville Mining and Manufacturing company was organized last week, and yesterday completed negotiations for the purchase of 2,000 acres of land in and about the suburbs of Moundsville, paying $400,000 for it. A company will take the land and immediately begin its development. Rolling mills will be erected, and other manufacturing plants, employing some 2,000 men. Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and local capitalists are largely interested in this enterprise.

BEHRING SEA CASE CLOSED.

It is Expected That the Court will Deny John Bull's Petition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Arguments in the Behring Sea case in the supreme court were concluded yesterday. A decision is expected next Monday. It is expected by those who made a study of the case, that court will deny the petition.

National Guard Appointments.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 29.—Governor Pattison has made the following appointments: Milton D. Mott, associated judge of Pike county; John I. Rogers, of Philadelphia, judge advocate general; Lewis W. Reed, of Montgomery, surgeon general; Chambers McKibben, of Allegheny, inspector general; Herman Osthaus, of Lackawanna, inspector of rifle practice.

THE OHIO LEGISLATURE.

The Passage of a Bill in the Morning and the Killing of the Same in the Afternoon One of the Senate Features.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—The passage of a bill by a vote of 19 to 5 in the morning and the reconsideration and killing of the same bill by a vote of 19 to 6 in the afternoon was a feature of the senate proceedings. The Corcoran bribery bill, with Mr. Alexander's amendment prohibiting all state and county officials from receiving railroad passes, was the measure subjected to this acrobatic feat. A startling feature of the bill, as it passed, was Senator Richards' amendment, making officials receiving passes guilty of a penitentiary offense, punishable with five years' imprisonment. Senator Carpenter made a strong speech against the bill, denouncing it as buncombe and of no interest to the people. Mr. Alexander supported the bill, and maintained that accepting favors from corporations obligated the recipients. Mr. Massie thought the measure a farce and absurd, and would make the body a laughing stock of the whole state. Mr. Wilson, a farmer and alliance man, considered such legislation demagoguery, and declared that the demands coming from the Farmers' alliance were extremely foolish. Just before adjournment the senators decided to rid themselves of the prospect of prison garb, and carried Mr. Carpenter's.

Motion to Reconsider Action.

Mr. Richards, who fixed the penalty at five years in the morning, favored the motion to reconsider and said he was ashamed that he had voted for such a bill. The motion passed. The bill was returned from the house and indefinitely postponed. Senator Corcoran immediately introduced another bribery bill very similar to the original one. The new bill provides that either the giver or taker of bribes shall be exempt from prosecution if either squeals. The object is to secure testimony in bribery cases. Senator Morrison's bill requiring foreign building and loan associations to give $60,000 securities approved by the state treasurer before they can do business in Ohio passed the senate. Mr. Alexander's amendment to provide for a state inspector was voted down after a lengthy discussion.

House Proceedings.

A measure affecting radical changes in the handling of county funds by treasurers was the cause of much discussion in the house. The bill was introduced by Mr. Sanford, of Summit, last session. It related to counties containing cities of the second class, third grade, and was applicable to only Akron and Canton. In fact, it means the transfer of the funds to a bank, to be known as the county depository. Mr. Monnot moved an amendment to the bill so as to except Stark county from its provisions. It was adopted, and then Mr. Hearne, of Harrison, moved that the measure be amended so as to apply to all counties. It was supported by Mr. Taylor, of Champaign, and Mr. Griffin, of Lucas. The amendment was lost by a vote of 70 to 17, and the bill passed by a vote of 66 to 21.

What a Change

Is wrought in people who suffer from rheumatism when they take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The acidity of the blood, which causes the disease, is neutralized, the blood is purified and vitalized, the aching joints and limbs rest easily and quietly, and a feeling of serene health is imparted. Hood's Sarsaparilla has accomplished wonders for thousands subject to rheumatism. Try it yourself.

Remarkable Rescue

Mrs. Michel Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her that she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her Druggists suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She contained it and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Z. T. Baltzly's Drug Store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.
